Testing a Canvasser.

A newspaper proprietor advertised for an advertisement canvasser, and his test of the applicants' fitness, when they appeared, was to tell them to get out of his office that instant or he would kick them out.

Several timid young men turned tail and left him with great disgust; but one, more brazen-faced than the rest, nothing daunted by the threat, coolly sat himself down and swore he would not go until his testimonials had been read; so he locked the door, put the key in his pocket, and handed in his paper.

"Ah," said the advertiser, "you'll do, I can see! I don't want testimonials; your style is enough for me. No one will ever succeed as an advertisement canvasser who will be influenced by a threat to be kicked out of an office. You evidently understand your business."

A Political Quarrel in Cincinnati.

Eph Holland, the notorious Cincinnati gambler and politician, is in a hot quarrel with Jake Aug., who is only a little less notorious in Cincinnati as a gambler and politician. Holland has been fired at twice, and he charges upon Aug. these attempts at assassination. Aug. is in momentary expectation of a retaliatory attack. He sat in his club house the other day when the lid of a desk fell with a noise like the discharge of a pistol. He thought that he had been shot at, and cried out to his son for help. The pair hastily armed themselves and searched the house, the yard, and finally the neighboring streets, cocked revolvers in hand, for Holland or a hired gun. A scared waiter hid in the meantime fled to the cellar and hid himself in a barrel.

"A Very Impudent Fellow."

A famous London physician used to relate that he had long gone almost daily to the "Shades" near London Bridge, to rest awhile and drink a glass of wine from the wood. For many years he had taken it as a matter of course that he must not intrude on the privacy of the man who, as it happened, invariably selected the next stall. But sympathy itself suggested certain curiosity. One day the warmth of the weather and the generosity of the liquor broke the long spell, and raising his voice he said: "Sir, I have had the pleasure of taking my wine next to you now for twenty-seven years. May I venture to ask my friend's name?" A hollow voice replied: "Sit, you're a very impudent fellow." Such was the rule of coffee house society in those days.

Bound to Elope.

John Ivy and Florence Seymour planned to elope from Elizabeth City, N. C., but the girl's father stopped them by shooting John. But the wound was slight, and served to heighten the ardor of the lovers. They resolved to fly on the following night, and John arrived at midnight in a close carriage. Florence discovered that her wary father had taken all her clothes out of her room, except what she slept in. She said she would not be thwarted by such a trivial obstacle, and she wasn't, for she rode away to a clergyman in her nightgown, shielded by a horse blanket.

Sidney A. Shores, who married his step-daughter, aged 11, at Somerset, Me., has been fined $500 for violating a state law forbidding such wedlock. The marriage is also invalidated. The Rev. Zacchaeus Bowen, who performed the ceremony, is very old, and, as he pleaded, that he did not know the youthfulness of the girl, the public prosecutor let him go unpunished.

Not Afraid to Tell What He Knows.

In reference to a paragraph in the GAZETTE concerning the comparative insensibility of trout to pain from the angler's hook, the editor of the Genoa Journal makes the following statement: The Journal editor does not desire to increase his reputation as the hose-prevaricator, but the above subject is one of his weaknesses. During the year 1874 we, in company with Joe Healey and Arthur Haime, went fishing on Salmon creek, Washington Territory. Mr. Healey caught a trout of about a half pound weight, that had been caught (beside the one with which he was caught) sixteen hooks in his mouth. The hooks were arrayed in bunches of four, in the shape of "grab hooks," and there were four of the bunches in his mouth. The gentlemen above mentioned, both of whom reside at Vancouver, Washington Territory, will verify the above statement.

B. Bacon and J. Myers were making active preparations at noon-to-day for their trip to Candelaria. Chapman and Price were going with them, but concluded to stay home. J. M. White and George Jamison go in their stead. The party will be absent about ten days or two weeks.

THE AUSTIN CONVENTION.

The Delegates Instructed To Vote as a Unit For Blaine.

Special To The GAZETTE

AUSTIN, May 11.—The Republican State Convention met in this city today, and adopted the following resolutions:

Resolved—That whereas James G. Blaine is the almost unanimous choice of the Republican party of the State of Nevada, for Presidential candidate, that it is the sense of this Convention that the votes of the delegates from the State of Nevada to the National Convention should be cast in favor of James G. Blaine for Presidential candidate.

Resolved—That the delegates to the National Convention from the State of Nevada be, and they are hereby instructed to vote as a unit in the National Convention, also to use all honorable means in their power to secure the nomination of, and to cast their votes as a unit for James G. Blaine, as long as his name shall be before the Convention as a candidate for nomination.

The following are the six delegates elected to the Chicago Convention: E. Strother of Storey county, W. W. Bishop of Eureka county, C. G. Stevenson of Storey county, Dr. J. J. Meigs of Elko county, and M. D. Foley of Eureka county.

The convention was harmonious throughout.

SAN FRANCISCO LETTER.

The Salary of the Superior Court Judges—Exceptions Made for the City and County of San Francisco—Indications of an Alliance Between Democrats and Workingmen.

From Our Own Correspondent.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 10, 1880.

There was an error in my letter of the 6th instant. I stated that the salary of a Judge of the Superior Court was $3,000. But in the new Constitution I find that those Judges "shall receive an annual salary of $3,000 each, payable monthly, except the Judges of the city and county of San Francisco who shall receive $1,000."—even then a small sum when compared with the income of a lawyer of fair standing. I understand that the customary exception in favor of the city and county of San Francisco has often given rise to humorous remarks on the part of our grave legislators. Years ago a bill was passed to punish the crime of adultery, when a member arose and offered the amendment to "except the city and county of San Francisco."

After Governor non-elect White received from Governor Irwin the nomination of Bank Commissioner, the act was considered as one of proposed affiliation of the Democratic and Workingmen's parties, and at the time of our labor procession I was told that they were got up for political purposes, and that Kalloch would before long stump the State for the Democratic party. On Saturday evening there was a Democratic and Workingmen's meeting to express a disapproval of the action of the Board of Supervisors in resolving upon the impeachment of the Mayor, and we learn that the citizens of Surprise valley have gone to work in earnest to get the road built over Lassen Pass at an early date. They have already $1,600 subscribed towards the construction of the road and have had a survey of the route made by Mr. Wm. Dodson of Cedarville, who has reported that the heaviest grade on the entire route, and this for only a short distance, is but twenty-four inches to the rod. Reno has also come to the front nobly, and the sum of $800 is subscribed to secure this much-needed road. In view of these facts it is not about time for the citizens on this side to commence moving in this matter, which will be of more direct benefit to them than to either Reno or Surprise valley? We think so. Here we are cut off from all communication with the outside world for from seven to nine months in the year. During this time to get articles of merchandise and groceries from San Francisco is an utter impossibility, as teams cannot travel. It is a well known fact that the citizens of Surprise valley are able to get freight from Reno at any season of the year. It is equally well known that a good roadway across Lassen Pass can be kept open for travel even during the most rigorous winter, and for freight teams during the entire average winter season. This should be enough to induce the citizens of this valley to build the road, even though they received no aid whatever from other sections.

A BOOMING RIVER.

The Flood in the Truckee-Ranches or the Meadows Overflowed.

The warm wind from the southwest caused a rapid melting of the snow on the mountains yesterday. During the night the river rose rapidly and this morning it was higher than it has been for four years. A good many logs came down with the flood, and the river is full of floating drift wood.

The river looks grand to-day. The dam is entirely covered by the rushing water. Looking from the bridge, the scene is impressive. The little stream that in summer, clear as crystal, flows gently along its rocky bed, is now a raging, turbulent torrent, clashing along with resistless fury, lashing the banks with mighty waves and threatening to sweep away everything.

Many ranches on the meadows are flooded. From Heister Stephens' three miles from town, the boys were this morning hauling away logs that had been washed there, by the flood. R. S. Gaanon's ranch, near Al. Longley's, was partially flooded. The water in the Central ditch had backed up from the river to Clark's Ranch. On Whistler's there was a foot of water.

The river has receded since morning, and will not be likely to rise again to-night. The wind is now from the northwest and cold, and little snow can have melted in the mountains to-day. Fears are expressed that the Glendale bridge will be washed away during the present flood, as the structure is weak and incapable of resisting a severe strain.

Dan Connor came up from Clarke's ranch at 3 o'clock this afternoon. He says that two or three square miles of the meadows are overflowed. The water on Clarke's ranch is in places ten feet deep. It is three or four feet above the level of the outlet of the Drain ditch. All the grain that has been flooded will be destroyed. No loss of stock is reported.

LASSEN PASS ROAD.

Work Commenced In Farwest—Lake County's Need of a Winter Highway to the Outer World—Most Convenient to Reno.

The Lake County Examiner of the 6th instant has the following: "From J. K. Rine of Bidwell, who paid our town a short visit early in the week, we learn that the citizens of Surprise valley have gone to work in earnest to get the road built over Lassen Pass at an early date. They have already $1,600 subscribed towards the construction of the road and have had a survey of the route made by Mr. Wm. Dodson of Cedarville, who has reported that the heaviest grade on the entire route, and this for only a short distance, is but twenty-four inches to the rod. Reno has also come to the front nobly, and the sum of $800 is subscribed to secure this much-needed road. In view of these facts it is not about time for the citizens on this side to commence moving in this matter, which will be of more direct benefit to them than to either Reno or Surprise valley? We think so. Here we are cut off from all communication with the outside world for from seven to nine months in the year. During this time to get articles of merchandise and groceries from San Francisco is an utter impossibility, as teams cannot travel. It is a well known fact that the citizens of Surprise valley are able to get freight from Reno at any season of the year. It is equally well known that a good roadway across Lassen Pass can be kept open for travel even during the most rigorous winter, and for freight teams during the entire average winter season. This should be enough to induce the citizens of this valley to build the road, even though they received no aid whatever from other sections.

Stamping Unpaid Letters.

A good many unopened letters are dropped into the postoffice in the course of a year. These letters are exhibited in a conspicuous place and marked "held for postage." After a time they are sent to the Dead Letter office. This is the practice of Uncle Sam's postmasters. The Young Men's Christian Association last year devised a scheme of practical philanthropy in connection with unopened letters, and their plan has been found to work well. They pay the postage on all such letters, and stamp on the envelopes a notice to the effect that they have done so. The receiver is of course expected to reimburse the society for the outlay. The Young Men's Christian Association has a great many letters on hand that have been repaired and put in thorough order for customers. They will please call on them.

Held to Answer.

The examination of Ah Bau was concluded in the Justice's court this morning. It was commenced at 10 A. M. yesterday. About twelve witnesses were examined. Some of them swore that they saw the prisoner do the shooting. Others proved that he was in bed and asleep when the crime was committed. The evidence was very contradictory. Justice Young decided to hold Ah Bau to answer before the Grand Jury. The woman's condition is still critical.

Measuring the Truckee River.

Ed Vesey and Dute Gray were measuring the volume of water flowing under the bridge this morning. With the aid of instruments belonging to Pierre Humbert they approximately determined the velocity of the current. Their separate estimates did not vary more than 100,000 gallons from each other. As near as they could determine there were between 10,000 and 300,000 gallons flowing per minute.

Where is the Man Eater?

The attention of Reno's 601 is called to a wood dealer at Bruno who sent a Reno man a car of wood cut from old yellow pine saw logs, that had lain in the river until every bit of carbon and pitch had soaked out of them, and they were as white as chalk, and then sent a bill for "One car load of extra white pine wood."

It is the general opinion, that Googol is one of the finest watchmakers on the Pacific Coast.

Watches.

No watchmaker on the Coast has a better reputation for fair dealing and excellent work than I. Fredrick.

LUMBER ON THE TRUCKEE,

Riverside Boys Hauling Runaway Wealth of the River.

Quite a business is done by some of Reno's more energetic boys in catching drift wood in the river during high water. Immense quantities come down during freshets and, although not a tith is landed, yet a good many houses could be kept in fuel from this source. The lazy way to get a load is to swing out a small boom, consisting of a stick of timber anchored to the shore at one end, and held at the other by a rope fastened to a friendly tree higher up. These little booms fill up every few minutes, and keep the head of the firm hard at work landing the contents, while his partners or employees are carrying it off or "casting" for blocks further out.

The river looks grand to-day. The dam is entirely covered by the rushing water. Looking from the bridge, the scene is impressive. The little stream that in summer, clear as crystal, flows gently along its rocky bed, is now a raging, turbulent torrent, clashing along with resistless fury, lashing the banks with mighty waves and threatening to sweep away everything.

Many ranches on the meadows are flooded. From Heister Stephens' three miles from town, the boys were this morning hauling away logs that had been washed there, by the flood. R. S. Gaanon's ranch, near Al. Longley's, was partially flooded. The water in the Central ditch had backed up from the river to Clark's Ranch. On Whistler's there was a foot of water.

The river has receded since morning, and will not be likely to rise again to-night. The wind is now from the northwest and cold, and little snow can have melted in the mountains to-day.

is a simple but effective operation. A chunk of iron is fastened to the end of a rope thirty feet long, and when a stick worthy the effort comes sailing down the stream, fifteen, eighteen twenty or twenty-five feet from the bank, the weight is thrown beyond it so the rope shall fall directly over it. The line is then hauled in, and if the stick should slip out from under it, another cast usually brings it within reach of the pole armed with a hook which quickly deposits it on the rocky shore. In this way a lively boy can earn a nice book or a pair of good shoes in a day or two.

Stop That Cough

With a sample bottle of Kaiser's German Elixir. This is the most popular cough remedy ever introduced, being mild yet positive in its action and soothing in all circumstances. Old and young may use it with perfect security. It is rich in the medicinal properties of tar, wild cherry and horseradish.

Ask your druggists, Messrs. Auburn & Shoeemaker, about its merits. They sell large quantities of it and say it exceeds all others.

The genuine bears the Prussian coat of arms and the specific signature of Dr. Kaiser on the wrapper and has his name blown in every cent bottle. Samples 20 cent. Large size 15 cents.
